At a meeting of the board of directors of the Small Defense Industries association last week the following officers were elected for the current fiscal year: Hampden Wentworth (Longren Aircraft), president;

Vets Should Seek Advice Before Selling GI Homes

Veterans selling their GI homes too frequently appeal for counsel too late and end up legally bound to clear substantial debts incurred by another.

This statement came today from Mrs. Helen K. Dill, executive director of the Community Chest-sponsored Torrance Area Veterans Service Center, 1622 Gramercy avenue, Torrance, where veterans and veterans' dependents and survivors may obtain free advice regarding their rights and benefits.

"The VSC too frequently receives appeals for counsel or help from veterans who have sold their GI homes only to find that purchasers are defaulting on their payments," Mrs. Dill said.

The counselor stated that under Veterans Administration rulings selling does not require approval and the veteran is legally bound to make good any outstanding liabilities.

"His only protection is to pay off his liability in full or insist that the new purchaser seek out his own financing in order that his obligation to the VA and the lending agency be completely satisfied."

School Employees Dinner-Dance

A potluck dinner and dance will be held by the California School Employees Association, Torrance Chapter No. 19, on April 2 at 6 o'clock at the Moose Hall, 1744 W. Carson. Entertainment will be furnished by pupils of Nadine Nickel. All Torrance Unified School employees and their families are invited.

Safety Award Won By Local Steel Plant

Three Southern California plants of the Consolidated Western Steel and Columbia-Geneva Steel divisions of U. S. Steel are proud possessors of National Safety Council plaques today following conclusion of the Second Annual Safety Congress and Exhibit at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles.

Some 1000 persons representing more than 500 member-firms of the Greater Los Angeles Safety Council heard the Torrance Works of Columbia-Geneva Steel division named first place winner for the second successive year in the steel classification.

D. H. Hyde, superintendent of industrial relations, accepted the award for the Torrance Works which completed the contest year of 1954 with .65 of

HEALTH FILM SET TODAY

The first film showing in the current expectant mothers' classes at the Torrance Health Center, 2300 Carson street, has been booked for Thursday (March 31) at 1 p.m., according to Dr. B. A. Kogan, District Health Officer. The film is "Labor and Childbirth."

The second film booking is set for April and will be on safety, the Doctor said.

All expectant mothers are invited to the classes which are a tax-supported service of the County Health Department.

An injury per million man hours worked, as compared with the steel industry average of 4.75.

As one of their community service projects, the Torrance Y-Wives will make all arrangements for the annual luncheon on April 11, of the Torrance Educational Advisory Committee. Schedules are being set up for planning, preparations, and serving at this function.
